

Larry Robbin Brief Bio

Larry Robbin, Executive Director of Robbin and Associates, has over forty-five years of experience in workforce development. Larry is widely regarded as a national expert in the workforce development field. His experience in workforce development includes being a direct service provider, manager, consultant, trainer, new program designer and keynote speaker. Larry has designed more than 150 innovative workforce programs and projects serving all types of populations of adults and youth. He has trained over 100,000 people, presented at more than 500 conferences, and delivered over 300 webinars. Larry has done more training for the California Workforce Association and workforce programs in California than any other presenter. His consulting and training services are frequently used by government agencies including the Department of Labor, America's Job Centers, nonprofits, schools, training providers, community-based organizations, social services, businesses, and many other entities. Over 70 of his articles and interviews about workforce development appear in a variety of different publications. Larry has won over 100 awards and honors for his work including a proclamation from the California State Senate. His work has received international recognition and in 1971 he was one of the first Americans to be invited to China to discuss workforce development. For more information about Larry and his services, to sign up for his free newsletter and to download free job seeker handouts and best practice information go to <http://www.LarryRobbin.com>.